AWARD

For the 2015-16 academic year, all graduate degree applicants in saxophone will be considered for the graduate teaching assistantship.

Award: $5,650 stipend per year for Doctor of Musical Arts and Artist’s Certificate students; $4,700 stipend per year for Master of Music and Performer’s Certificate students. In addition, tuition is waived for up to 10 hours of the out-of-state portion and up to 6 hours of the in-state portion each fall and spring semester. Must enroll full-time as a graduate student.

Responsibilities: Up to 10 hours of work per week, as assigned by the faculty. Duties include assisting with private lesson instruction, saxophone quartet coachings, studio classes, technique classes, and saxophone ensemble, as well as non-music major private instruction.

Assistantships in other areas may be available. The Conservatory of Music and Dance also offers music scholarships, which are awarded on a competitive basis, based on the recommendation of the faculty.
